

Village Green Preston

At Village Green in Preston, Places for People has transformed a once unpopular area with single-person housing into a new community of family homes.

The £7 million development, which comprises 61 two, three and four-bedroom houses as well as two-bedroom apartments, also includes a home that has been specially designed to suit the needs of a family with a disabled child.

Village Green is situated in an area where Places for People manages 1,100 homes for affordable rent. The introduction of homes for sale has created a mixed neighbourhood, contributing to the long-term sustainability of the area.

Places for People has worked closely with the community to deliver the project. Local residents have been involved in the planning of the development and projects have been run with local schools. On-site work experience has also been provided for five students from a local high school.

The new homes, which are set in landscaped surroundings with extensive planting, have proved popular with local housebuyers.
